$3,000,000 Furs to Be Auctioned at St. Louis Next Week

Furriers are turning their attention to the auction sales to be conducted in St. Louis by the Fur Merchants Sales Company and the Fouke Fur Company, beginning October 2 and lasting four days. While the offerings at the sale, valued at $3.00,000, will represent a large variety, the quantity will be smaller than usual. Another sharp upturn in prices featured the raw silk markets yesterday. Prices in the Yokohama market rose 50 yen a bale, while the net advance in local quotations amounted to 20 cents a pound. The high prices did not check trading in the Japanese market, transactions for the day totaling 2,300 bales. Holders of the crack Sinshiu No. 1, who were quoting it on Friday at 2,000 yen, raised their asking prices yesterday to 2,070 yen. There was little activity in the local market because of the Jewish holiday. Silk manufacturers are not taking kindly to advances in the raw silk market because of their fear of the effect of increases on the buying proclivities of the public. Gray Goods Prices Harden.

Gray Goods Prices Harden.

Despite the absence of many traders because of the Jewish holiday, the local gray or unfinished cotton goods market continued strong yesterday, prices on certain descriptions rising about an eighth of a cent. Mills demanded 9½ cents for the standard 64-60s, 38½ inch print cloths, and 10½ cents for the 68-72s, although there were few sales at the new figures. Manufacturers, however, are not disposed to sell far ahead into the future because of their strong belief that the upward movement in prices will continue. Stocks in the hands of buyers are believed to be small and the mills are rather confident of a better demand for their product. A prominent gingham house has sent out a price list for spring, which shows advances of one cent a yard on all grades.

Crude Rubber Rules Strong.

Crude Rubber Rules Strong.

The local crude rubber market continued strong yesterday, although trading was small. Most manufacturers are said to be fairly well stocked with raw material and apparently are taking only a passing interest in proceedings. Sellers are quite firm in their price views, but there are reports of concessions. Asking prices for spot ribbed smoked sheets were 15½ cents, and for first latex crepe, 15½ cents, Quotations on future positions also ruled quite strong. Holders offered both descriptions at 15% cents for October-December delivery, and 15% cents for January-March shipment. Aprifand June shipments of ribbed smoked sheets were quoted at 16 cents, and the first latex crepes at 16½ cents.

FOREIGN INTERNAL BONDS.

Burlap Market Dull.

Duliness prevailed yesterday in the local burlap market, but prices held firm. The tariff seems to have created a hesitant feeling among buyers because, while they are following the market rather closely, they show little disposition to commit themselves. The fact that the Calcutta market was closed on account of a religious holiday, also may have produced a weakening effect on buyers' activities.
